United Group Limited secures $120m of power contracts

Engineering and property services company United Group Limited (ASX:UGL) has won new work in the power sector that will generate an anticipated $120 million in revenue for the company over the next 18 months.

- UGL Infrastructure will install two energy efficient, 45-megawatt GE LM6000 gas turbines for ATCO Power at the Karratha power station in the Pilbara, Western Australia.
- UGL Infrastructure will design and construct electricity substations for Powerlink Queensland in the Brisbane suburbs of Belmont and South Pine.
- BBUGL, a business partnership between UGL Infrastructure and international construction and engineering group Balfour Beatty, will construct 275-kilovolt transmission lines from Strathmore to the Burdekin River and from South Pine to Sandgate for Powerlink Queensland.
- UGL Infrastructure has also secured a contract to install a substation in the Black River area near Townsville in Queensland for Ergon Energy.

UGL Managing Director & CEO Richard Leupen said the contract wins were further evidence of robust demand in the company's core markets such as power generation and transmission, despite weaker economic conditions.

"Most of UGL's revenue comes from providing essential services to the infrastructure, water, power, transport and resources sectors," Mr Leupen said.

"We have a strong position in markets that continue to trade strongly and we are well-placed heading into the new calendar year."
